

Chicago & Turabian (Author-Date)

The Chicago Manual of Style outlines citations for many academic and professional publications. For each topic below, the corresponding section in The Chicago Manual of Style, 17th Edition is listed in parentheses. Chicago employs two citation styles: note-bibliography style and author-date style. This handout only addresses author-date style, which is usually preferred in the sciences and social sciences. Remember to tailor your work for your specific audience and assignment.

Note: Turabian style—detailed in Kate Turabian’s A Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations, 9th edition—is a modified form of Chicago style for student papers. This handout applies to both Turabian and Chicago styles.

General Format (Turabian A.1)

Margins (Turabian A.1.1, Chicago 2.10) Use 1-inch margins on all sides.

Font (Turabian A.1.2.) Use a readable and standard-size font (e.g., Times New Roman 12-pt. font).

Line Spacing (Turabian A.1.3) Double-space body text and single-space reference list and any block quotes.

Title Page (Turabian A.2.1.2)

The title page introduces key information about your work: the title of your work, your name, course information or other affiliations, and the date.

Title (Turabian A.1.5, A2.1.2)

The title should appear a third of the way down the page. If the title has a colon or subtitle, the subtitle or information following the colon should appear on a second line following the main title. Unless your instructor says otherwise, the title and any subtitle should appear in boldface with each element centered.

Additional Information (Turabian A.2.1.2)

Include your name, along with any other information requested by your instructor, such as the course title and date. This information should be centered at the bottom of your title page.

In-Text Citations (Chicago 15.21-15.26)

This style uses parenthetical citations listing the author’s last name, the date of publication, and the page number if quoting from a specific page or section. These citations are typically placed at the end of the sentence. If the author’s name is used in the text, the remaining citation information should directly follow the author’s name.

Example (in-text citation): Essentially, “railroads had made Chicago the most important meeting place between East and West” (Cronon 1991, 131).

Example (in-text citation): According to Cronon (1991, 131) “The railroads had made Chicago the most important meeting place between East and West.”

Note: If citing a book with more than three authors, list the first author’s last name followed by “et al.”

Example: (Smith et al. 2017, 55)

Reference List Entries (Chicago 15.6, 15.9 and 15.50)

Reference List Format (Chicago 15.5-15.6, 15.10-15.16)

There are various kinds of bibliographies (e.g., selected, annotated, single-author, etc. Chicago 14.64), but a standard reference list includes all sources quoted or paraphrased within your work. A reference list is required for author-date style and does not include sources that are not cited in your text (Chicago 15.3).

Listing Entries (Chicago 15.11)

List sources alphabetically by last name. If using more than one work by an author, list additional entries chronologically.
